It aims to create a positive, inclusive atmosphere, based on mutual respect and respect for people's differences and the challenging of stereotypes. The school will give consideration to what action it can take to support people who are socially disadvantaged by addressing social barriers.

The school is also committed to making its workforce more representative of the community it serves and to making full use of the skills and knowledge of people from different groups. It aims to foster good relationships between people of different groups and to improve staff moral and performance.

Equality of opportunity will be applied consistently across all aspects of service delivery, including admissions, student development, learning support, curriculum development, teaching, learning and marketing.

The school will comply with its legal duties under all current equality legislation.

Every student, member of staff, and Governor, within school will have responsibility for promoting equality and diversity and tackling discrimination, harassment and victimisation.

The school will ensure that every governor, member of staff, and all students are made aware of their duty to avoid discriminatory practices, to discourage them in others and to accept personal responsibility for the application of the policy.

The school will consult with students, members of staff, people who share protected characteristics (and associated support groups), people from different socio-economic backgrounds, stakeholders and school partners and use the outcomes to guide future action.

The school aims to promote an environment of positive working relationships and to ensure that all members of school are treated with dignity and respect.

The school values diversity. It aims to employ a workforce that reflects the community it serves and is committed to inclusive education and to enabling school staff and students to achieve their full potential. It will do this by making any reasonable, appropriate adjustments to ensure that people who share protected characteristics are not placed at any substantial disadvantage.

As an employer, the school will ensure that the principles of equality and diversity are applied to recruitment, redeployment, staff development and promotion.

THE PRESCOT SCHOOL'S COMMITMENT

The Prescott School is committed to and will promote fair and positive attitudes towards people from groups who share protected characteristics.

All reasonable, appropriate adjustments to provisions will be made to ensure that people from groups who share protected characteristics are not substantially disadvantaged.

The school will comply with its statutory duties under the current equality legislation. The school will strive to meet all students' needs, identify and remove barriers, within the school's control, which hinder or prevent students or staff from achieving their full potential and raise educational standards.

The school will take specific action to tackle any differences between different groups in their achievement levels and progress, in the use of disciplinary measures against them (including suspension), in admissions or in assessment.

The school is committed to creating a positive, inclusive atmosphere, based on respect for people's differences, to challenging and preventing unlawful discrimination. The school will ensure that all curriculum and tutorial teams actively seek opportunities within their programmes to celebrate diversity, widen students' cultural understanding and prepare them to be effective citizens in today's multi-ethnic society.

The school will strive to make the workforce more representative of the local community by removing any barriers, within the school's control, which might hinder or prevent applications from people from groups who share protected characteristics.

The school is committed to improving staff morale and performance and to avoid losing able staff by making full use of the skills and knowledge of people from different groups.

THE EQUALITY ACT 2010

The Act provides protection for people from groups which share protected characteristics and prohibits:

- direct discrimination (including dual discrimination, associative and perceived discrimination)
- indirect discrimination
- harassment
- victimisation

The Act provides the power to allow proportionate action to be taken to address disadvantage or underrepresentation or to meet the particular needs of those who share a protected characteristic.

PUBLIC SECTOR DUTIES

Single Equality Duty

The Single Equality Duty places a legal requirement on public bodies to have regard, in the exercise of their functions, to the need to:

- eliminate discrimination, harassment, victimisation, and any other conduct that is unlawful under the Act
- advance equality of opportunity between persons who share a relevant protected characteristic and persons who do not share it
- foster good relations between persons who share a protected characteristic and persons who do not share it.

The duty requires the school to measure the impact of policies, procedures and services and to consider in advance how it can ensure that its users can appropriately use and access its services to meet their particular needs.

CAREERS

The school's commitment to equality and diversity is reflected in its Careers Programme which has a clear and ambitious vision for providing high quality and inclusive careers advice, information and guidance for all. The Careers Programme reflects the progressive building of knowledge and skills for future learning and destinations. This reflects the school's educational philosophy which incorporates high expectations for achievement and progress.

Specific and individualised wrap-round support in line with the SEND Code of Practice 2015 enables all learners to make effective transitions.
